ALBION STONE

1 Bartholomew Lane, London EC2

Architect/Designer:
Sidell Gibson

Client:
F&C Asset Management

Main Contractor:
Blenheim House Construction

Location:
City of London

Portland Stone:
Fancy Beach Whitbed

Scope of Project:
Build four additional floors above existing building, with redevelopment of existing office space.

1 Bartholomew Lane is a high quality new development in the City of London, located directly opposite the Bank of England.

Originally built around the 1930's, the façade of a former bank was retained in the two principal frontages up to the 6th floor.

Behind this and extending above it in four further floors is a highly efficient modern office, offering multi-tenanted lettable space for twelve floors. The new higher level façades clad in Albion's Portland Fancy Beach Whitbed stone.

With a striking double-height

main reception lobby incorporating a formal sweeping staircase to the lower ground, it's Portland Stone flooring and walling, 1 Bartholomew Lane makes a strong corporate statement to staff, clients and visitors in every way.

This project received a BREEAM rating of Excellent, and received 'Commended' in the 'New Build Modern' category of the Natural Stone Awards 2012.
